THE UNLOADED GUN

Adds Another to its Already Long List of Victims.

An old musket which children did not know was loaded, was the instrument used in blotting out the life of Louis Beindick, aged 11 years, on Thursday evening last.

The boys resided a mile south of New Rochester and upon returning home from school they went upstairs to get the old musket which stood in the corner of the room. The weapon had been loaned to an uncle, Ernest Krummeyer, and had been returned a few days before. The gun was never kept loaded, and the boys presumed, of course, that it was still empty.

They placed a cap on the tube and each bantered the other to shoot. Finally Fred said he would shoot it and would shoot Louis. As he raised the gun to his shoulder, Louis started to run and had gone about eight feet when a deafening report shook the house and the boy fell to the floor with a charge of heavy shot in his side. He was carried to a bed with the gaping hole in his side and a doctor hurriedly sent for.

All efforts to save the boy's life were fruitless, however, and he died Friday morning. He was conscious from the time he was shot until a very short time before he died and exonerated his brother from all blame.

AFTER TWENTY-TWO YEARS

John Hall, who has been the faithful janitor at the Wood county court house for over 22 years, resigned his position and retired from active service last Thursday.

During all these years he has never missed a day from the service and his universally courteous and accommodating manner has won for him the sincere respect of every official and employee of the court house during all those years and his retirement is deeply regretted by every person in the building, while all are pleased to know that he has saved a competency and has purchased a little farm and home near Bowling Green, where he can spend the remainder of his days in retirement and happiness.

Before leaving the place he has so long filled the county officials gathered in the auditor's office and Auditor Harding, on behalf of the officials and their clerks, presented him with a beautiful leather upholstered rocking chair, as a testimonial of good will. Mr. Hall expressed his thanks in a neat little speech which indicated that he was deeply grateful for the good will of his friends.
